

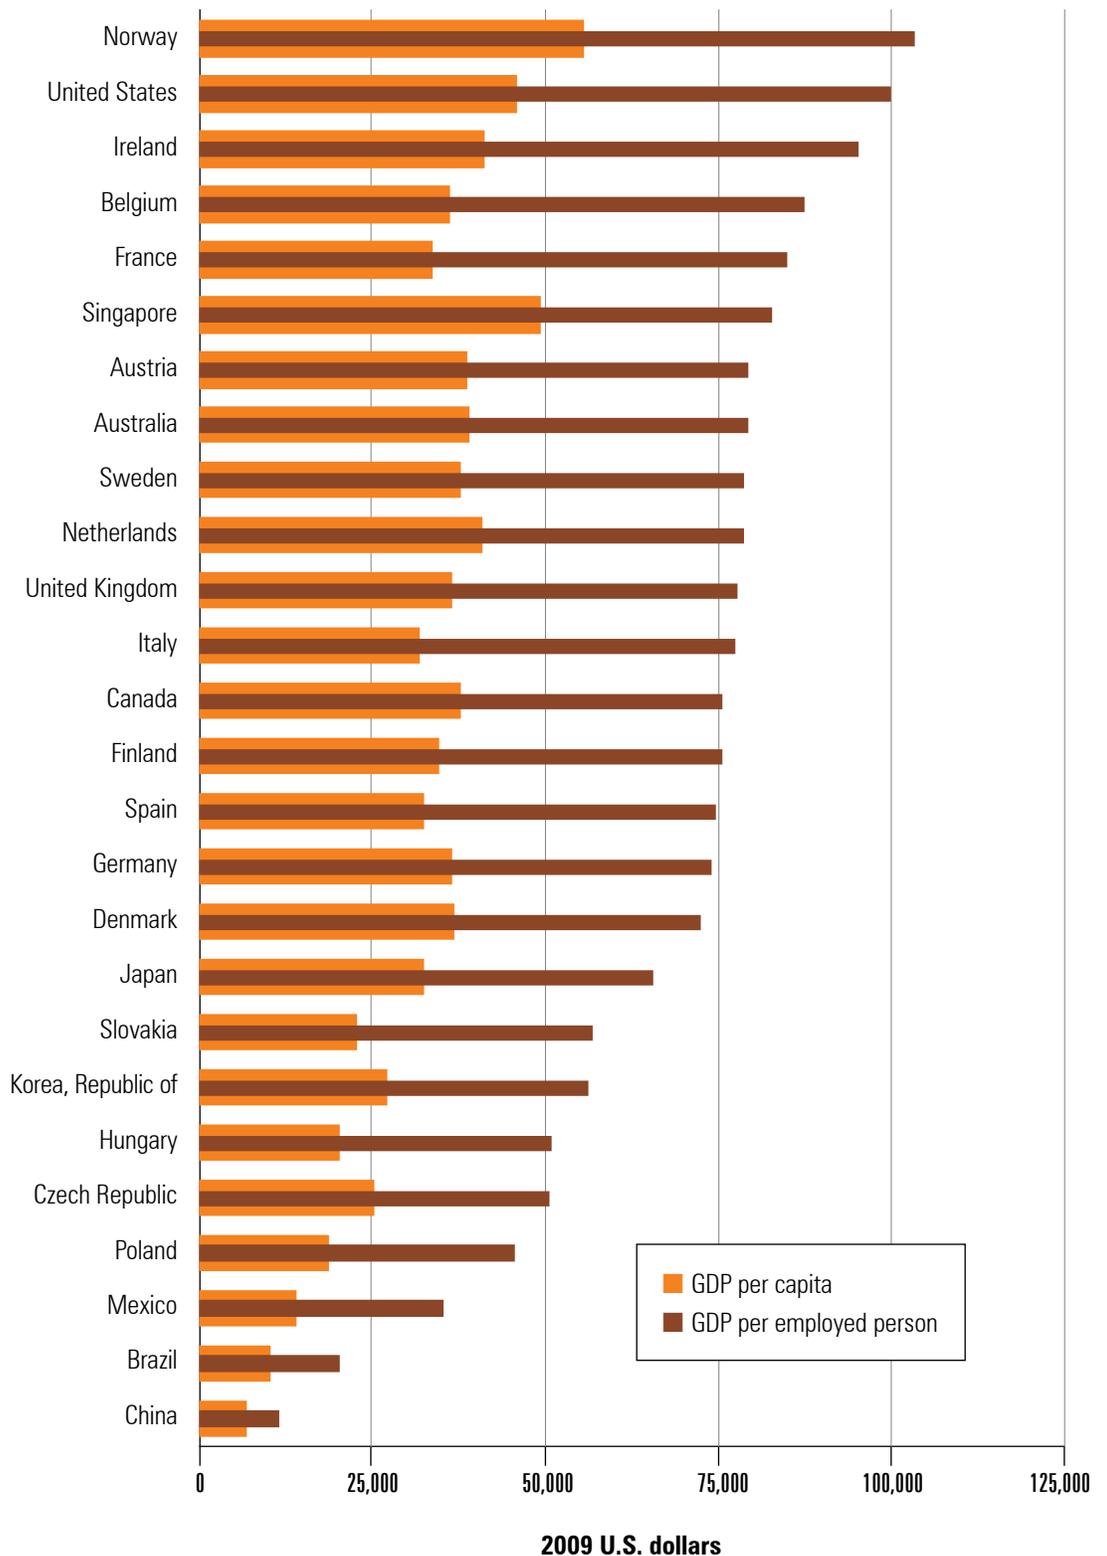

CHART 1.4

Norway had the highest gross domestic product (GDP) per capita and per employed person.

- GDP per capita in the United States was approximately 7 times larger than that of China.
- Singapore had the second highest GDP per capita, but only the sixth highest GDP per employed person—indicating a high employment rate in that country.

Gross domestic product per capita and per employed person, selected countries, in U.S. dollars, 2009

SOURCES: Bureau of Labor Statistics and The World Bank