

Benton County, Arkansas, had the highest concentration of employment in managing offices, with a location quotient of 10.6.

📍 Hamilton, Ohio; Hennepin, Minnesota; and St. Louis County, Missouri, rank in the top ten counties in both employment and employment concentration within managing offices.

Chart 20 examines 2006 annual data for counties with at least 75,000 workers. The industry studied was corporate, subsidiary, and regional managing offices.

CHART 20

Top ten large U.S. counties in managing offices employment concentration

