

Wages were the highest in New York County (i.e., Manhattan), with a wage density of $9.17 billion per square mile.

📍 In contrast, Hamilton County, New York, had a total wage density of $26,130 per square mile, the lowest in the State.

📍 The Yukon-Koyukuk Census Area, Alaska, paid the least wages, with a total wage density of $461 per square mile.

📍 Nationwide (excluding Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands), total wage density was almost $1.6 million per square mile.

CHART 22 U.S. total wage density by county, 2006

