

2011 CONSUMER EXPENDITURE SURVEY (CE) MICRODATA USERS' WORKSHOP: SPEAKERS FROM OUTSIDE THE BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

The following is a list of presentations delivered by speakers at the 2011 CE Microdata Users' Workshop who were not affiliated with the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Citations for papers presented are updated periodically as CE staff find out that published versions are available.

Kara Markley & Karen Ransom, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Mid-Atlantic and Southeastern Information Offices, "Making Sense of the CE Microdata: Experiences of Two First-Time Users"; Interview Survey, day one

Tian Luo, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Western Information Office, "Higher Educational Expenditures by Race"; Interview Survey, day one

Jonathan Fisher, Census Bureau, "Household Adjustments to Gasoline Price Changes"; Interview and Diary Surveys, day one

Jeff Lundy, University of California, San Diego, "Measuring Annual Change in Household Wealth with the CE Survey"; Interview Survey "Accessing Confidential CE Microdata: The BLS Onsite Researcher Program"; day two

Adam Bee, University of Notre Dame, "The Effect of Car Ownership on Employment: Evidence from State Insurance Rate Regulation"; Interview Survey, day two

Megumi Omori, Bloomsburg University, "What to Buy, When to Buy, and How Much to Spend?: Gift Purchasing Between Black Friday and Christmas Eve in 2009"; Diary Survey, day two

Brian Melzer, Northwestern University, "Effects of Mortgage Debt Overhang on Housing Investment"; Interview Survey, day three

Sayeh Nikpay, University of Michigan, "Seasonality of Medical Expenditures and Flexible Spending Accounts"; Interview Survey, day three

Anthony Damico, the Kaiser Family Foundation, "Health Care Spending by Medicare Recipients: How to Analyze CE Data by Expenditure Category for Any Population Group of Interest"; Interview Survey, day three