Average Energy Prices, Chicago-Gary-Kenosha — June 2017

Gasoline prices averaged $2.452 a gallon in the Chicago-Gary-Kenosha area in June 2017, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today. Assistant Commissioner for Regional Operations Charlene Peiffer noted that area gasoline prices were down 25.6 cents compared to June 2016 when they averaged $2.708 per gallon. Chicago area households paid an average of 16.1 cents per kilowatt-hour (kWh) of electricity in June 2017, up from the 15.1 cents per kWh paid in June 2016. In June, the average cost of utility (piped) gas was 89.0 cents per therm, up from its average price of 74.4 cents per therm a year earlier. (Data in this release are not seasonally adjusted; accordingly, over-the-year-analysis is used throughout.)

At $2.452 a gallon, prices for gasoline in the Chicago area were comparable to the national average of $2.400 a gallon in June 2017. Chicago area gasoline prices in the previous four years (2013-2016) in June exceeded the national average, ranging from 28.6 cents to 61.9 cents more. (See chart 1.)

Technical Note

Average prices are estimated from Consumer Price Index (CPI) data for selected commodity series to support the research and analytic needs of CPI data users. Average prices for electricity, utility (piped) gas, and gasoline are published monthly for the U.S. city average, the 4 regions, the 3 population size classes, 10 region/size-class cross-classifications, and the 14 largest local index areas. For electricity, average prices per kilowatt-hour (kWh) are published. For utility (piped) gas, average prices per therm are published. For gasoline, the average price per gallon is published. Average prices for commonly available grades of gasoline are published as well as the average price across all grades.

All eligible prices are converted to a price per normalized quantity. These prices are then used to estimate a price for a defined fixed quantity. The average price per kilowatt-hour represents the total bill divided by the kilowatt-hour usage. The total bill is the sum of all items applicable to all consumers appearing on an electricity bill including, but not limited to, variable rates per kWh, fixed costs, taxes, surcharges, and credits. This calculation also applies to the average price per therm for utility (piped) gas.
