Instructions for Reporting by Occupation

 Report employees in the occupations in which they are working, not necessarily in occupations for which they have been trained.

For example: An employee trained as an engineer, but working as a drafter, should be reported as a drafter.

- Report each employee only once in the occupation that requires the highest level of skill if the employee performs work in two or more occupations. If there is no measurable difference in skill requirements, report employees in the occupation in which they spend the most time.
- Use the description of duties along with the job titles to determine where to place employees. Do not rely on job titles alone.
- Report apprentices and trainees in the job for which they are being trained. Report helpers separately because they are not in training for the occupation they are helping.
- Report part-time workers in the job they perform.
- Professionals who directly supervise other workers in professional occupations should be classified in the same occupation as the workers they supervise. For example, a drafter that supervises other drafters is classified as a drafter.
- Workers in Service, Sales, Office and Administrative, Forestry and Farming, Production, Maintenance, and Transportation occupations who spend 80 percent or more of their time performing supervisory duties should be reported as supervisors. Workers with supervisory duties who spend less than 80 percent of their time supervising should be reported with the workers they supervise.

Instructions for Reporting Wage Information

For all employees:

- Please use the hourly and annual wage rate categories to report employees. If wages are not recorded by hour or year (bi-weekly, or monthly for example), convert them into an hourly wage rate.
- For part-time workers, please report the specific hourly wage rate, not an average.
- For tip, commission, and piece-rate workers, please estimate the earnings (base pay plus tips, commissions, or piece rates), and report the appropriate wage.
- For salaried workers who do not work a standard 2080 hours per year (40 hours per week), please report wages on an hourly basis. For workers who are paid an annual salary by contract, such as Airline Pilots, report their annual salary.

For each occupation listed, read the definition to determine which occupations are found in your establishment.

For each occupation that is found in your establishment, write in the number of workers in this occupation, based on their wages.

For example, there are six Accountants in your establishment. One is part-time, working 20 hours a week, and earns $12,480 per year; and five are full-time: two earn $32,000 per year, and three earn $46,000. Calculate an hourly wage for the part-time worker by dividing the annual wage by the number of hours worked; 20 hrs x 52 weeks = 1040 hrs/yr, $12480/1040 hrs = $12/hr. Write "1" in column C. For the full-time workers, use their annual wage: write "2" in column D and "3" in column E.

Add up the total number of workers in this occupation and write the figure in the Total Employment column, making sure the total agrees with your records.
